KILBY'S PERMIT GONE.

The Comptroller Says the Briber Is as Bad as the Bribed.

It Will Be the Means of Stopping the Investigation.

D. M. Durell, the Backer of the Inquiry, Withdraws.

Clerk Schoonmaker Has Not Been Seen Since Thursday.

All the Evidence of Bribery Laid Before the Grand Jury.

Comptroller Myers has revoked the permit of C. P. Kilby, a stand-holder in the New West Washington Market.

This statement, simple as it may appear means that the investigation into the allotment of stands, in progress before the Commissioners of Accounts, is practically ended. After many days spent in the tedious examination of witnesses by Mr. Nicoll and the Commissioners, the charges that bribery had been resorted to to obtain stands, was substantiated in at least one instance.

Charles P. Kilby yesterday swore that he had paid Lewis Schoonmaker, Assistant Clerk of Markets in the Comptroller's office, $500 to secure his stand permit, and his testimony was corroborated by his employee, Henry H.

The Comptroller, when informed of this fact promptly suspended Schoonmaker, and at the same time revoked Kilby's permit. An Evening World reporter interviewed Comptroller Myers on the subject this morning.

"Yes," said he, "I have revoked Mr.
Kilby's permit. I consider him just as guilty as the man who accepted the bribe, if not more so.
"Mr. Schoonmaker, I am told, has been in this department sixteen years, and has al-ways borne the highest reputation, and now comes a Satan with a bribe that tempts him to his hell. his hell.

"Certainly the tempter is not less guilty than the man who succumbs to the temptation; nor should he go unpunished. I re-tion: nor should he go unpunished. I rewoked his permit at once."

"But, did you consider." asked the reporter, "that you may have obstructed the investigation before the Commissioners of Accounts? Have you not, by revoking Kilby's permit, closed forever the mouths of other stand-holders who may have paid money to secure their permits and who may have desired to testify, but who will

"I had not looked at it in that light. I viewed it from a moral standpoint only. I could not see how a man who confessed to an act of bribery should be entitled to any consideration and had no thought of the effect of my action on other witnesses. Besules, I acted on the advice of the Corporation Counsel."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Wickes, who has been representing the city during the interest of the city during the second counsel.

it is improbable that the objectors have any other witnesses who can testify to specific acts of bribery."

When informed of the action of the Comptroller in revoking Mr. Kilby's permit, the Commissioners of Accounts were unauimous in declaring that there is no necessity for further investigation by them.

Commissioner Holahan said that it will now be impossible to secure testimony of further acts of bribery with a threat of loss of business held over the head of every stand-holder.

"Will you bring the Kilby and Grimm evidence to the attention of the District*Attor*, ney?" Commissioner Holahan was asked.

"There's the rub," he replied. "If we do that we close Mr. Schoonmaker's mouth and he will not be available as a witness before us. He will be an accused person and can avail himself of a refusal to answer."

"You will remember that Schoonmaker told Kilby that he did not get a cent of the $500 paid him; that it went to others.

"Who the beneficiaries were we desire to discover, and Schoonmaker alone can tell." The Comptroller's office has agreed to produce him on Monday, but we have subpensaservers looking for him."

Regarding the suggestion that the investigation would conclude next Monday, Commissioner Holahan said that eighteen witnesses have been subpensed to appear on that day.

THE SCORE AT 4 P. M.

The interest in the Madison Square Garden bicycle race has grown daily and the gatherings of spectators have increased in number proportionately.

The race will wind up this evening and riding will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, instead of 3, so that the race can be con cluded at midnight and without any infringement of the Sunday laws.

Lottie Stanley, the Pittsburg midget, still maintains her place at the head of the procession, all the efforts of Elsa Von Blumen to overtake her proving futile. She is clear to overtake her proving futile. She is clear grit and pluck, and her speed is remarkable. She has been favored by Dame Fortune and has had no serious accident or ailment during the work. She scored her 500th mile at 11.54 o'clock last night and announced that she was going to beat the Garden's record—that made by George Littlewood in December last in a go-as-you-please. It was 623% miles in 142 hours.

Miss Oakes, in the blue and white of Columbia College, and Miss Von Blumen, who displayed streamers of the College colors, were the recipients of much attention from a delegation of the students last night.

Crib Club.

Forty-Nine Prisoners Arraigned and Discharged in the Harlem Court.

Police Justice Murray was surprised to find about fifty well-dressed men arrayed before him when he ascended the judicial bench in the Harlem Police Court this morning.

"What have these men done?" he asked. " My men raided the Crib Club, at 17 West One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street, where a prize-fight was in progress last night, and these gentlemen were found there and taken into custody, as well as the pugilists," explained Capt. Westervelt, of the East One Hundred and Twenty-street station. The Crib Club numbers among its members nearly all the blooded scions of wealth and fashion in Harlem.

Ten days ago tickets at $5 apiece began to circulate quietly about town, entitling the holder to witness a prize-fight for a purse at the club-rooms last night between "Tommy" Russell, the Yorkville rusher, and Tommy Kelly, known in sporting circles as the Harlem Spider.

The riug was pitched on the top floor of the club-room, and at 9.30 o'clock last night Frank Banham, a director of the Club, jumped into the riug, declared himself referee, and warned the spectators not to interfere with the spect.

It was difficult to restrain the enthusiasm of the witnesses, and their shouts and shrieks of encouragement could be plainly heard in the street.

It is believed that Hatch's losses are not entirely of his own making, but that he has been acting for some speculator. The name of the son of a prominent railroad man was mentioned, but the story was denied.

As soon as it was light they rolled the second gallant thoroughbred over the side of the ship.

Every arrangement for the care of the horses had been inspected and approved before the Queen left her dock, and the two grooms who had charge of the precious horse-flesh were thoroughly competent, one of them having crossed with horses half a dozen times before.

At Sandown in July, Ossory was second to his stable companion, Orbit, for the £10,000 Eclipse Stakes, the elder Cannon riding the winner, with young Tom on Ossory, who had set the nace from the start. The race in a measure upset Ossory, for he was next unplaced for the Sussex Stakes at Goodwood. He, however, won the great Yorkshire Stakes late in August, but was in turn unplaced for the Stakes. And William Coffee May Be Responsible for It.

There was a quarrel on board the Pinafore at 3, 30 o'clock this morning, and in the wrestling match that followed two men fell overboard. One is supposed to have been drowned, and the man who was rescued is under arrest on suspicion of having caused the death of the other.

The Pinafore in this instance is not a mano'-warsman in Her Majesty's service, but only an ordinary freight barge of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad transfer service, lying off the Company's vards, at the foot of West Thirty-first street. Owen Malone was her captain, and after her arrival yesterday he began to fill up with liquor. William Coffee was employed on board as a roustabout.

A half an hour atterwards Weisman was in another part of the yard, when he heard an outery and he hastened to the shore.

He found a man struggling in the water, just off the shore, and after considerable difficulty he pulled him to dry land. The man proved to be Coffee.

Weisman and a man named Michael McCormack who had assisted in saving Coffee, made a diligent search for Capt. Malone, but they could find no trace of him.

The two men then went to the West Thirty-seventh street police station and reported the case. Officer Morris was detailed to arrest Coffee on suspicion of having caused his captain's death, by pushing him off the barge.

When Coffee was brought in he was still slightly under the influence of liquor. He said he lived in Paterson, N. J.

THEY'VE STILL FAITH IN MAC

BOSTON SPORTS BACK FROM THE GREAT LIGHT-WEIGHT MILL. ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. 1 Bostos, Feb. 16.-Jimmy Colville, Larry

Killian, Billy Hurd and Larry Moran, who went to the McAuliffe-Meyer fight, arrived home this morning, feeling first rate, but not any richer. They went to the battle with pockets full of money, and wagered nearly all of it on their man, McAuliffe.

They are still enthusiastic for the Brooklyn lad, and think he will whip Meyer if they ever meet again, and they probably will. The party will bet all the money they can get on McAuliffe. "If Meyer had done any fighting at all," said Killian and Hurd, "the result would have been different.

"If Meyer had done any fighting at all," said killian and Hurd, "the result would have been different.

During the sixty-four rounds Meyer led just three times, and when McAuliffe offered to give him $1,000 if he would lead four more times, he replied: "What do you want me to do—let you knock me out?"

This talk about McAuliffe having two ribs broken is all bosh in our opinion. Meyer cannot strike hard enough to break anybody's ribs. The only mark that McAuliffe had when he stepped out of the ring was a little scratch on his nose, and that was made by the catch on Meyer's glove. After the referee declared the battle a draw McAuliffe stepped over to Meyer's corner and said to him: Now, Billy this fight is called a draw and all bets declared off. Lets you and I and ten of our friends go into a room and fight for the stakes. Meyer put him off by saying. I'll see you later."

Another foolish story that is going the rounds is that Mae is weak at 133 pounds, but his supporters are confident that he would be strong enough at 130 pounds to light for hours. He was in better condition than ever before, and his trainer, Bob Drew, is deserving of praise for getting him in such fine fix. McAuliffe is anxious to meet Meyer again, and he would cancel all his engagements in order to fight him.

The sporting men who went to the fight are now laughing at one of the officials that had to be fixed before he would let the fight go on. He received $300, but did not have it long, for one of the sports relieved him of the whole amount, He made a big kick, but it didn't amount to anything.

the jury in the case of Jockey Stone, indicted for murder in the first degree for killing a Coney Island bartender named Henry Miller, caminto the Brooklyn Court of Sessions this morn-They told the judge they had taken no less sixteen bollots, and had sat up all night and norning.

The foreman said they stood six to six for con-riction, and he had no hope of coming to a decision.

They were then discharged and the colored prisoner was taken back to Raymond Street Jail.
This is the second failure to convict the jockey of the killing of Miller.
After a five-days trial last November the jury had also to be discharged without a verdict.

But the meeting has not been arranged, and it is considered extremely doubtful among the sports here that it ever will be.

It is rumored that a private fight has been arranged, but this is not credited.

Meyer refuses absolutely to divide the not and has entered his protest inside of the seventy-two hour limit, as provided in the articles of agreement.

His backer, Kennedy, he claims, has issued a challenge to McAuliffe for another fight also within this time limit. If the latter refuses to accept Meyer will claim the stakes. McAuliffe is said to be ten pounds over weight now and cannot possibly get in trim within the specified time.

The stakeholder, Harry Ballard, is called on for a decision, but is at a loss to render it. BURNED TO A CRISP. After being looked up for twenty-four hours The Terrible Death of Little Mamie Hartel at Elizabethport. ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. I

Her clothing caught fire and in an instant Her clothing caught fire and in an instant she was enveloped in flames.

Her playmates fied in terror from the spot, leaving the unfortunate child to her fate.

When some older people reached the scene, shortly after, the girl was found writhing on the ground in the agonies of death.

The lower part of her body was burned almost to a crisp and she died after being removed to her home,
